Senate and House Act on Resignation Bill.

SUCCESSOR AT THIS SESSION

Senate Committee Reduces Option Period to Five Months as Hint for Speedy Resignation-Opposed to Recess Appointment-Lodge Bill Probably Will Pass To-morrow.

Congress is now ready to put through the Lodge-Gillett bills authorizing the retirement of Associate Justice William H. Moody, of Massachusetts, on full pay. The bills were reported yesterday from both the Senate and House committees on judiciary. The Senate bill was called up immediately in that body by Senator Clark, but objection to its consideration, except by a full membership, being raised by Senator Bacon, it went over until to-day, when it will again be called up and passed. The Gillett bill was unanimously agreed upon by committee and reported by Representative Clayton, of Alabama, a Democrat. It is planned to pass it Monday under suspension of the

The Lodge bill was amended by the Senate committee so as to reduce the period of option granted Justice Moody from six to five months. This is regarded as a delicate hint to the justice that an immediate resignation, under the permission contained in the act, is regarded as advisable by the Senate. It is probable that the House bill will be amended to conform with that of the Committee yesterday there was a long but informal discussion of the principle involved in the retirement of Justice Moody, and of the important question of the appointment of his successor.

Senate Position Slated.

It was the consensus of opinion that it would be far better if Mr. Moody should retire immediately. The opinion was expressed that no man appointed to the racancy on the Supreme bench should take his seat in advance of confirmation, and a very decided, although informal opinion registered, that if a recess ap-pointment were made, and the appointee should take his seat before Congress assembles in December, he would not be
